Bethel planners wrestle with 'change-of-use'

The sticky issue of what constitutes change-of-use under the Site Plan Review Ordinance bogged down the Bethel Planning Board at its meeting last Wednesday night.

The issue at hand was whether Bill Brown's intention to convert the barn adjacent to Breaux's Dairy Shop into a tack shop constituted a change-of-use. The barn had last been used as a retail store selling carpets.

"Retail is retail," Mr. Brown told the board. "I don't feel it's change-of-use."

Some members of the board seemed to agree, while others seemed to disagree. Board member Ginger Kelly said, "I've always thought that retail was retail."

Board member Don Feeney said, "I feel that we have a precedent [in allowing a sports clothing store move into the former Groan & McGurn video store at Edelweiss without applying for a permit]."

But other members said there was also a precedent set when the board required Mary Gillies to get a permit in order to turn the back portion of her building from a craft shop into office space.

Planning Assistant Veronica Smith told the board, "I didn't think that selling animal feed and harnesses was the same as selling carpets." She therefore instructed Mr. Brown to fill out a complete Site Plan Review application, which he did not do. Under current guidelines, the board has been accepting a simple sketch plan and an informal presentation in order to decide whether a planned change-of-use does or does not fall within the purview of the Site Plan Review Ordinance.

Mr. Brown failed to provide enough information in his informal presentation to allow the board to reach a determination on applicability. They therefore asked him to return with an accurate sketch showing the dimensions of the building and the availability of parking, plus a letter explaining what he intended to do and why he thought his business would not constitute a change of use.

The board planned to meet earlier this week to discuss changes in how to handle minor changes-of-use.

In other business last Wednesday night, the board heard a preliminary presentation from an agent of Bob Bahre, of Paris, on Mr. Bahre's application for a subdivision permit to put 18 lots on a 96-acre parcel on Bird Hill Road.

The parcel is right at the top of Bird Hill, at an elevation of 1,150 feet. The property abuts both Greenwood and Woodstock.

The lots would be 5+ acres each. A private road would be built into the subdivision to serve all 18 lots. A formal application will be made at the Planning Board's next meeting.

A final presentation was made on the planned 60-unit Riverbend Condominiums, on the Sunday River Road. The board accepted the application as complete and set a public hearing on the application for Sept. 28. The board will have 30 days following the public hearing to decide whether or not to grant the Site Plan Review permit.

Pleasant Mountain likely to be sold soon

Owners of Shawnee ski area in Pennsylvania are in the final stages of working out a purchase of Pleasant Mountain, according to ski industry sources.

These sources say the deal could be finalized in the next few weeks.

The current principals of Pleasant Mountain are two businessmen in Massachusetts who have owned the Bridgton ski area for the past five years.

One problem holding up the sale, according to Bridgton Town Manager Philip Tarr, is the matter of about $60,000 in back taxes owed by the skiway to the town. "Taxes have been running between $40,000 and $50,000 annually."

The town manager said the selectmen

Crime in Bethel: on the increase, say town officials

The Bethel Board of Selectmen held their regular meeting Monday night, but most of it was behind closed doors.

After opening the meeting at 7 p.m. and approving the minutes of the past two meetings, the selectmen immediately went into a closed-door session with the town counsel to discuss disposing of a piece of town-owned land.

They came out of their closed session at 8 p.m., talked briefly with the police chief, and then went back behind closed doors to further discuss personnel matters with the chief.

They also had a closed session on a personnel matter involving the code enforcement officer.

In open session they voted, 4-0 (Selectman Arlan Jodrey was absent), to change the status of the code enforcement officer from being a sub-contractor to being a part-time employee. There was no discussion—except what discussion was held behind closed doors.

The selectmen also voted, 4-0, to hold a public hearing Oct. 17 on proposed changes to the Landfill Regulations. The changes would set fees for white goods and tires brought to the dump, and would require that doors be removed from all white goods. The town manager reported that the town had to spend $2,500 last year to have white goods hauled from the dump. The fee structure would allow the town to be reimbursed for these costs.

In open session, while talking over police matters, the selectmen indicated they were unhappy with what town manager Rodney Lynch described as an increase in criminal activity in Bethel.

Police Chief Eric Wight said he was not happy with the situation either, but he lacked the manpower to do anything about it.

In the past couple of weeks there have been tires stolen, two vehicles stolen, and a table saw stolen. The chief said most of the larceny takes place at night.

Selectwoman Pat Doon blamed the burglaries on the need to get money to satisfy drug habits. "I think 95 or 98 per-

Telstar football backers try to keep ball moving

Undeterred by the small turnout at last Thursday's meeting on reviving the Telstar football program, backers of the idea plan to discuss the matter at an upcoming SAD #44 Board of Directors meeting. And they are looking further into ways of financing a football program.

Approximately 20 people attended the meeting, the second to be held on the idea. School board members, high school administrators and teachers made up about half the total.

Supporters of a revived program had hoped for a far larger turnout, and a few expressed disappointment that people who had said they would attend did not show up.

The meeting's organizer, Bill Roberts, of Locke Mills, concurred when school board member John Foster characterized the turnout as "a setback."

But Mr. Roberts was not ready to give up on the idea. "I'm not really concerned by lack of attendance," he said. "If I can raise $20,000 in six months, I don't care if there's only six people sitting here."

Supporters envision a program that would be totally underwritten by community, rather than school department, funding, at least during the early years.

Gilead at bottom of list for liveability, according to Portland Press Herald

A survey by the Portland Press Herald ranking the liveability of 136 municipalities in the state came to the conclusion that Gilead ranks 135th. The survey was published in the Monday edition of the Portland paper.

Other towns in Oxford County were ranked as follows: Bethel, 36th; Greenwood, 43rd; West Paris, 62nd; Woodstock, 65th; Andover, 74th; Newry, 92nd; Hanover, 109th; and Upton, 110th.

In describing why she likes Bethel, Lynne Hodgkin told the Press Herald, "I prefer to live where I can see mountains. I like the tranquility of them. I like the close proximity of everything. I don't need to drive to the store. I don't need to

Opinions

Letters

To the Editor:

I find [School Board Director] Ray Harrington's remark ignorant and totally irrelevant to the subject of discussion. I'm sorry that Ray Harrington had to state, "In my opinion SAD #44 is not a babysitting service" and that "responsible adults in the district" made the choice to have children and should be able to deal with having the children out of school Wednesday afternoons. Mr. Harrington's statement comes across to me that we only had children just so we could send them to school, and let the school babysit them. Sorry Ray! I don't agree!

I give the teachers much more credit than that. Parents send their children to school five days a week, from 8 a.m. to 2:15 p.m., to be educated, not babysat. Even if a parent did not want their child in school, I believe state law mandates children to be in school or tutored until the age of 16. Just recently I was reading an article where Governor John McKernan was looking to lengthen the time period children should attend school. This seems totally opposite to the direction this district wants to try and take.

I feel it is better for these children to be in school five full days a week, than having them out of school Wednesday afternoons. There are some parents that have little control of some of their children's after-school activities right now and I feel that this encourages situations like this to become worse.

Children need their routines. It's proven by pediatricians that besides family love, routine and consistency is one of the most important things for children. You change their routine and you have a change in your child.

I don't feel that Ray Harrington represented his Greenwood constituents very well by referring to the school system and babysitting systems, as it would appear, being one and the same. I'm not in favor of Wednesday afternoons off, and not because of a babysitter. I can find and handle that situation if I have to. I'm all for teachers taking more time for professional development activities, but let them develop their own time for these activities and not underdevelop our children's time. After all, this is our children's time—five days a week.

To the Editor:

I am opposed to early dismissal on Wednesday afternoons.

I have read the Board of Directors article in last week's Citizen.

I really liked what Mrs. Hand had to say about a latchkey society. I am very fortunate. I am married and I do not work. I am not worried about a babysitter [being out of school a half-day] because I am home. But on the other side of the coin, I do worry about the other children that only have one parent, and that parent works. They don't have the extra $15-$25 to hand over to their babysitters. Then again, some parents don't have babysitters because they only work part-time. But they may not be home in time in the early afternoon when their kids get off the bus.

Those hours they put in working, that money will go right into the hands of a babysitter. That money could have been used for an extra gallon of milk and to put some food on the table. That is where I feel Mrs. Hand is afraid of latchkey kids. Because parents don't have the money for babysitters. Even if they did, there are not enough good daycare or licensed homes in the area. As [Director] Cheryl Elliot said, "There's no place for these kids." She is absolutely right.

What I see [Director] Denise Putnam pointing to is that instead of them using their minds, they will come home and be "couch potatoes" and wasting their minds. Now I ask you teachers, is this what you want out of your students? "Couch potatoes?"

I am just shocked. No, I am appalled at SAD #44 teachers and staff. I went to school in this district and I had some dynamite teachers. Alice Ballard, Helen Varner, Frances Gunther, Maxine

CORRECTION

The policy of early release of elementary school pupils on Wednesdays will be on the agenda for the SAD #44 Board of Directors meeting on Monday, Sept. 26—not Sept. 12, as was incorrectly reported in last week's article. The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the new Woodstock School.

A note from the publisher

One of the best contributions a newspaper can make to the community is to foster discussion on issues of the day. Newspaper readers should find on the editorial page of their paper an assortment of views that will inform and stimulate. (In fact, one of our readers tells me that she often gets so stimulated by a Citizen editorial or publisher's column that she tips up the newspaper. And that's fine, so far as I'm concerned. I certainly wouldn't expect everyone to agree with all—or even most—of the views expressed on this page.)

Probably the best part of any editorial page is the letters section, because there are a wider assortment of views, and they're usually sharper, and more to the point than the language of an editorial writer.

I think letters to the Citizen provide an excellent barometer of public opinion in our area. My only regret is that more people don't avail themselves of the opportunity to use this page to express themselves.

One of our readers told me recently that she disagreed completely with those letter-writers who claim Bethel has no need of a new shopping center. And, she said, if she didn't watch out, she'd be writing a letter to the Citizen to have her say. I asked her why she was waiting, and she said she hoped someone else would write so she wouldn't have to.

I realize that many people are shy when it comes to putting their thoughts on paper and seeing them in print. But the alternative is not having a say in local issues, unless they come up for a vote.

Deborah Michaud

To the Editor:

Over a year has passed since the topic of the Greenwood Tire Dump first came to our attention. At that time every abutting landowner and each and every resident of West Greenwood and the Irish Neighborhood signed a petition against granting a permit for this proposed tire dump. A one year moratorium against the establishment of a tire dump has lapsed and again the forces in favor of establishing a tire dump in Greenwood are hard at work.

Because the owners of the proposed Greenwood tire dump are the only people in the entire State of Maine interested in operating such a facility the Department of Environmental Protection (DEP) has now assigned a staff person to help in the establishment of this soon-to-be one-and-only tire dump in the State of Maine.

Officially, right now, to this date, no government agency can or will comment on this Greenwood tire dump because the principals involved have not completed their Application for the required permits. Meanwhile, back in the woods the chain saws are buzzing and the chippers are chipping the 40 acres proposed for the tire dump. The land is being cleared-cut, the access roads have been bulldozed, and the entire 40 acres [seem] destined to be stripped of all vegetation within a very short time. This work is being done under the pretense of just another clear-cut logging job, which in itself is not against any laws or regulations.

This shows that our planning boards' rules and regulations do not cover industrial or tire dumps. Local codes which prohibit any cutting of timber or alteration of landscape, prior to obtaining permits, only apply to subdivisions, where no work can be started until all permits are issued.

Beware, this tire dump is going to be Brown and, last but not least, Helen Berry, just to name a few. These teachers never needed a half-day to "study" in the past. What is so different about this generation than the generation 25 years ago? Are they stupid in this generation? I don't think so.

What I think it is, is the teachers don't understand the kids. If the teachers understood the kids they wouldn't need a half-day, from October to May, to understand them.

Mr. Harrington said, "SAD #44 is not a babysitting service." I agree with Mr. Harrington. SAD #44 is not a babysitting service. But when our kids are in school let's keep them there.

I feel Mrs. Hand is right: we do count on the high school students a lot for vacation and holidays. But we won't have them to count on because they will be in school.

We have five teachers' workshops this year. Now you want to have a half-day on Wednesdays, [even] during the weeks of the workshops. That means the kids will only be in school 3 1/2 days [during those weeks].

You are wondering why there is so much illiteracy in our schools? Because the kids are not in school enough.

My last comment is, I feel a radical decision like this should be put on a referendum ballot and voted on by the individual towns.

If it works well—that is, if we get a good response—I'll print this little coupon every now and then in order to foster a wider discussion of issues. I'll report to you what issues people think are the most pressing issues in their communities and what solutions they suggest.

Let me just add a word about the components of a good editorial page—in our paper or any other paper: First there is the paper's editorial. This is a position taken by the paper. It should be a report and analysis of a problem, and it should recommend a course of action.

Second there are columnist's opinions. (In our paper the only regular columnist is me, but we also feature U.S. Senator George Mitchell, State Sen. Don Twitchell, and School Superintendent Dewaine Craig. And I would welcome others.) A columnist's opinion is just that, an opinion. It can be personal or political and is less formal than the paper's editorial. Unlike the editorial, it can use the first person "I" or "we," and it does not need to recommend any particular course of action.

Then, of course, there are the letters. Most newspapers require that letters be signed, and editors have the liberty, and responsibility, to make sure that no unfounded statements or slanders are contained in letters being printed. However, a statement of personal opinion is a protected form of speech under the First Amendment.

All that said, I invite our readers to add to the liveliness of our editorial page—either via letter, column, or simply clip the coupon above and send it in. Please drop off the coupon at The Citizen office, or mail it to Box 109, Bethel, 04217.

There they go again," as President Reagan often complains. The Democrats in the Senate have passed protectionist legislation that is guaranteed to raise the cost of living.

In order to protect jobs in the dying

Here's my opinion

The most pressing issue in my community is:

I think the solution is to:

Signature (optional)
Town

But realizing that I won't be able to convince everyone to write a signed letter to the paper, I have printed, above, a form that you can use to express your point of view—or part of your point of view—without the bother of an entire letter. And, if you prefer, you don't even have to sign your name.

Let's see how this experiment works.

a reality. Because the DEP is pushing for a legal tire dump in Greenwood, the only thing the permit applicant for this tire dump has to do is to comply with all regulations governing state-licensed tire dumps. Due to the fact that there are no tire dumps in the State of Maine, regulations are almost non-existing and easy to comply with. The DEP is keeping it that way so as to be able to establish legal tire dumps and discourage illegal dumping sites.

In my opinion, in this case the DEP is working against the environment it is supposed to protect. It seems tire dumps are okay as long as they are not near Portland or Augusta.

If you want to see the tire dump in plain view, take a drive on Paradise Hill. As you go over the hill look to the east in the direction of Mt. Abram and you will see Bethel's latest tourist attraction 40 acres of tire dump being cleared.

On that side of Paradise Hill are many beautiful house lots for sale. I understand that these house lots are valued at over $50,000 each. None of these beautiful lots have sold, not because of the high price, in my opinion; it is the view of the imminent tire dump that has spoiled the sales.

The only thing left to discourage the establishment of this unsightly tire dump is to organize opposition to this project. So contact your selectmen and let them know about your opposition, pass and sign petitions in opposition and ask the following questions:

* Is the company proposing this project reputable; are they bonded?

* Do they have enough financing to keep going? What if they go out of business after a couple of years and leave a million tires on the site, stop paying taxes and let the town take the property. Are the townspeople going to have to pay to remove a million-plus tires with their tax dollars?

* Is there money in escrow for fire fighting cost or clean up after a fire? Fire fighting cost at the South Paris tire dump fire was in the tens of thousands of dollars.

* Does Bethel or Greenwood have special fire fighting equipment that can spray water 800 feet? That's as close as fire fighters from South Paris could get to their fire—the heat was that intense, according to the South Paris fire chief.

* If Bethel or Greenwood don't have this special equipment who is going to buy this equipment?

* There are supposed to be ponds for fire protection. Are these ponds big enough to hold 14 days of water supply for firefighting? That's how long South Paris pumped water on the tire dump fire there.

In closing I ask all concerned citizens to get involved. Don't let the DEP push a fire dump down our throats. So contact your legislators, call your selectmen, work on petitions and meeting in opposition before it's too late. Because the location of this project is on the side of a hill it is highly visible and should be moved textile and shoe industries, the Democrats have designed legislation to keep out cheaper foreign imports. Unless you're a worker in a textile or shoe factory, this is not good news. It will mean that the protected industries will be able to set whatever prices they want, and you—the consumer—will have to pay it because there will be no foreign competition.

And even if you're a worker in a textile or shoe factory the legislation is not really good news. The legislation merely confirms what everyone already knows—that some of our industries are no longer competitive.

The country will not consent to propelling them up forever. Thus, at some point they will have to be allowed to slowly go the way of the camera and watch industries, giving way to cheaper imports.

What the Congress should be doing, instead of trying to preserve jobs in uncompetitive industries, is pass legislation to increase re-training for those whose industries are dying. There are plenty of jobs available for people with the proper training.

But the Democrat-controlled Senate, seeking to curry favor with big labor, is not interested in long-term solutions, only in short-term, vote-getting, bandaid actions. Fortunately, President Reagan will undoubtedly veto any protectionist legislation, as he has wisely done in the past.

This comment against Democratic politicking is not meant to imply that the Republicans act from motives of high principle. Take, for example, the Reagan-Bush promise not to raise taxes. While politically popular, this policy has led to unheard of budget deficits and national indebtedness.

Was it only eight years ago that presidential candidate Reagan was complaining about the Carter budget deficit of $40 billion and promising that, if elected, he (Reagan) would balance the budget. The budget is now $200 million in the red, while the national debt now exceeds $1 trillion—truly a national disgrace.

Someone will have to pay off these loans, and when the taxpayers are called upon to do so, the Republicans will likely be the first to point to the Democrats and say, "There they go again."

Speaking of presidential campaign de-javu, wasn't it just eight years ago that Reagan was castigating Carter for not being tough enough on the Iran-hostage situation? Now we have Bush campaigning on the foreign policy prowess of the Reagan White House, which led to breaking the law and selling arms to Iran in the unsupported belief that American hostages would then be released; plus breaking more laws and using money from the arms sales to buy arms for the Contras. If this indicates what we could expect from a Bush presidency, I go Pogo.

And speaking of the sliminess of politics, it's amazing to me that the Congress, in its infinite wisdom, passes a supposedly tough anti-drug law that imposes the death penalty for anyone killing someone in a drug-related crime—yet refuses to endorse a one-week waiting period to check on the records of people wanting to purchase handguns.

The Congressional action was all the more strange in that police forces throughout the country wanted the waiting period. The National Rifle Association—with its millions of dollars for lobbying and campaign contributions—was against the waiting period. The Congress said, in effect, we'll let the drug-runners buy as many guns as they want and kill as many cops as they want, but then we'll execute them if we catch them.

District responds to complaints about early dismissal on Wednesdays

[The following is a statement from the superintendent's office in response to complaints last week by parents angry over the early release of grade school students on Wednesdays. Ed.]

In response to a stated community need, a subcommittee of SAD #44's administrative team has developed a plan designed to provide afternoon activities for the upcoming Wednesday afternoon Professional Development Days.

SAD #44 schools will be releasing elementary school students each Wednesday after lunch. A concrete plan will be presented to the School Board at its Sept. 26 meeting, at the Woodstock School.

Under this plan, children's activities will be made available to parents who have been unable to arrange for child care on Wednesday afternoons. It is not intended to compete with other child care facilities in the area.

In order to have their child participate in this activity program, parents will need to complete a registration form for approval by the building principal prior to Sept. 30. There will be a nominal weekly charge of $2 per child or $3 per family to offset costs involved.

The three elementary principals, Karen Robinson of Andover, Nancy Davis of Crescent Park and Ethel Bisbee, and David Murphy of Woodstock, are working cooperatively with individuals, churches, libraries, and other organizations within their communities to find available sites and personnel. Transportation will be provided for participants. Telstar Principal Ted Davis is exploring use of Telstar facilities as an extension of this program. Also participating in the planning are School Board Chairman Merton Brown, SAD #44 Superintendent of Schools Dewaine Craig and SAD #44 Administrative Assistant Bruce Powell.

West Bethel

By CONSTANCE BROADBENT

Dear Muddy,
It's threatening fall here in West Bethel. Yesterday I was swimming; today I'm in long pants and a sweater! But I won't put all the summer clothes away, yet. My neighbors say I should hold out for at least one Indian Summer.

There is a bustle of activity in our little village in the mountains, as we let go of summer, send our kids (some of us) back to school and shift into fall gear. Some of us worked hard on the Pleasant Valley Grange Fair last week. We baked and sewed and gathered crops and got creative. We sold lots of good "stuff" to folks from near and far and realized a healthy profit. Oh, by the way, I didn't win the raffle money. It went to Dorothy Grover, of Burlington, Vt. Dot's sister-in-law, Ina Grover, of Mason, sold the winning ticket to her visiting nephew, Dennis (for his mom), just the morning of the fair. Lucky lady!

Do you remember Barbara and Jack Williams, of Weston, Mass.? They stopped to see Barbara's aunt, Olive Head, on their return from a two-week stay at their camp in East Andover. They were led by the Grange Hall to visit with Olive and to catch up on West news while they sampled Jeanne Kimball's doughnuts and other bits of culinary wizardry. Barbara worked as a school nurse for years with Jane Hosterman back in Weston.

Olive had also just had her first visit from her great-granddaughter, Amanda Reibel. Amanda came calling with her parents, Lisa and Michael Reibel, of Waltham. Needless to say, great-grandmother Head was beaming as she told us of the visit.

Just before the fair, Ina and Rupert (Grover) and Donald and I gave ourselves a day off. We packed a lunch and hiked up Albany Mountain to see what we could see. The day was gloriously clear and when we finally reached the peak, thanks to Rupert's perspicacity, we were treated to an eagle's eye view of near and distant lakes, ponds, streams and mountains. Talk about atmosphere! A sandwich and coffee on a table of granite is the ultimate in ambience! It was the second trip for Donald and me. Just the week before, Arthur Gilbert took us up the same trail. But we got off at Albany. Notch that day and were treated to a different view and an equally wonderful hike through the forest.

The Gilberts have been busy with lots of company lately. Their youngest granddaughter, Cassandra Perez, of Mexico, spent an overnight with them recently. And granddaughter Melanie Stowell, of Shirley, Mass., arrived for an extended stay. Melanie is attending Gould Academy as a freshman this year and will use her Gilbert grandparents' home as base camp. Daughter of Rowena and Johnathan and sister of Nathan, Melanie will enjoy the added advantage of being right around the corner from her paternal grandparents, Harriet and George Stowell.

In the "Welcome Back" department, I just learned that Tracy Kimball has returned to West Bethel after working in New Jersey as a nanny for quite a while. Her immediate plans included spending an overnight with Jane Head in her dorm at Farmington. Tracy will be living at home and working for the Dan Hart family as she readjusts to West Bethel life.

Speaking of adjusting, Joshua Aylward adapted nicely to his "day off" last week. He took the Vautours and his grandparents, the Grovers, on a fishing trip that required a trek through the woods, slashes through the mud and a few uphill climbs. Joshua set the pace; the grownups managed to keep up; and everyone caught a trout or two. The lesson for that day: nature, according to an almost-five-year-old is something wonderful to behold, and behold, and behold. Thanks, Josh.

In the "Life in the Country" department, Dick Hosterman came up our road the other day with a rather trailering of topos for us. He and Jane have an abundance of "dirt" as a result of excavation for a garage. We, on the other hand, have a hill made of sand and many new gardens that are crying for help. So the Hostermans have blessed us with topos and an occasional worm! I was hoping

The Willing Workers had a food sale Saturday, Sept. 17, at Smith's Shop 'n Save, Oxford.

The first Monday of October, Oct. 3, the Willing Workers will be holding their regular meeting. We hope all will make an effort to be there.

Jeff and Lourdes Brazier, of Seaport, visited with Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Clements Tuesday. They were on their way to New Hampshire. That same day Mr. and Mrs. Shirley Harvey, of North Port, called on the Clementses. Mrs. Harvey is Marta's sister. They were in their trailer and camped on the lawn that night. They are touring the northern part of the United States. They plan to travel down through California and across to Florida where they will spend the winter in the trailer at Zephyrhills, returning in the spring. Marta Clements, a teacher in the West Paris school, is taking a class on adolescent literature at Gosham College Thursday nights this fall.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Brooks and Olive Davis attended Franklin Grange Monday night. Tuesday night they were in West Sumner to the installation of Oxford Pomona officers. Richard Felt was installed as Master.

Olive Davis and Elizabeth Young were in Harrison Thursday at Lake Shore Inn where they met with their classmates of 1921 of Bridgton Academy. This was their class reunion, which they have tried to hold yearly. Those attending, besides them, were Orpha Davis, Helen Chute, Gladys Knight and guest, Phyllis Daniels.

Mary Minck, who was flying in from Florida, was taken sick on the plane and was placed in a hospital in Portland. We felt so sorry as she would not be with us. She was flying in to visit her parents for awhile in Harrison.

Callers on me this week were Lettie Brooks and Olive Rusko, who brought me a delicious meal and a dish of blackberries. Many thanks.

ed the tomatoes and dug the hills of potatoes and pulled the bean vines. I sheltered out the Rose Champion Beans, which I have tried to keep for seed all these years. They can't be found in the stores now. I appreciate their help. They have quite a ride each time and do not have much time away from home, as my sister, Lillian Harmon, is in a wheelchair at home. Some of the children are handy sometimes, which helps.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Niro and two children, of Massachusetts, visited their parents Friday night and Saturday. They attended the 1978 class reunion Saturday afternoon. That night Mr. and Mrs. Ellenworth Hathaway had a supper party for them and Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Tyler, Donna and Ryan Hathaway, who are staying here until her husband, David, can find a home in Germany where he is stationed at present.

Mary Bessey, of Livermore Falls, visited her sister and family, Ann and Ivan Proctor, several days this week.

My cousin, Laila Doughty, of South Paris, called on me on Tuesday.

Yesterday was busy also. Peggy took me to the doctor for my back in the forenoon. Had to stop at a store on the way home. Got lunch and then had a busy afternoon canning beans. Put up 30 pints of them during the afternoon. Thank goodness Karlann was a real good girl for her Nana so I did it done and took care of them this morning.

Peggy cooked some and put them in freezer bags or boxes to try freezing them this year. I haven't tried it but don't see why they shouldn't be all right. We freeze carrots that way and they are good, so why not beans? Anyway, time will tell. Just didn't have room in our freezer to try anything like that. By the time we get all put up the freezer will be full and then some. But it will sure help this winter.

If you want to see a sight you should see Russell's tomato plants. One kind are "Sweet Million" and I swear there are a million tomatoes on each plant. There are four of them. The tomatoes are like cherry tomatoes and what a bunch of them there are. We can't keep up with them and with the canning, too; we can't keep up with them in eating either. He had never tried them before and they are sure a sight, covered with tomatoes.

So are the other plants with the large tomatoes.

Myrna and Bernard White were up a visit yesterday and took home some cakes and breads. Russell planted a different kind of beet this year and the tubers look more like chard, but you should see the beets! Some of them are three or four inches in diameter. There are a woody centers in any of them though they are so large that one will more than a pint jar. Don't know as I ever saw such beets before.

Michael came last night and to Karlann home so she could go to school today. She was looking forward to going home but will look forward to coming to visit again. She loves to come and to see her mother when I'm not around her. It is sure to be missed at times.

We have been fortunate in not having a frost as yet but don't expect it can be too much longer. The leaves are starting to turn in places but not too much yet. Tree here or there shows signs that it is coming fast, but still pretty much green around here. The big maple Lawrence's yard is turning, but not fast as it has the past few years. My water this year has helped things stay green.

Talked with Mary Lovejoy and the will be having their dance the first Saturday in October, as usual. Come on Halloween Costume, a prize for the costume will be given. Hope to see a lot of folks there to help out as the Grange needs the money to put up a new ceiling and I'm sure you will all have fun.

Also, there will be a food sale and a market on Oct. 15 at the Grange Hall. Anyone wanting to sell items and need a table can call either Mary Lovejoy, 674-2147 or Ellie Connell at 743-5042. A price of the tables is never as much elsewhere so come and bring your goodies to sell for Christmas whatever. The sales will be 8-1. Hope to see lots of folks there to buy and help.

Michael came last night and to Karlann home so she could go to school today. She was looking forward to going home but will look forward to coming to visit again. She loves to come and to see her mother when I'm not around her. It is sure to be missed at times.

We have been fortunate in not having a frost as yet but don't expect it can be too much longer. The leaves are starting to turn in places but not too much yet. Tree here or there shows signs that it is coming fast, but still pretty much green around here. The big maple Lawrence's yard is turning, but not fast as it has the past few years. My water this year has helped things stay green.

Talked with Mary Lovejoy and the will be having their dance the first Saturday in October, as usual. Come on Halloween Costume, a prize for the costume will be given. Hope to see a lot of folks there to help out as the Grange needs the money to put up a new ceiling and I'm sure you will all have fun.

Also, there will be a food sale and a market on Oct. 15 at the Grange Hall. Anyone wanting to sell items and need a table can call either Mary Lovejoy, 674-2147 or Ellie Connell at 743-5042. A price of the tables is never as much elsewhere so come and bring your goodies to sell for Christmas whatever. The sales will be 8-1. Hope to see lots of folks there to buy and help.

So are the other plants with the large tomatoes.

Myrna and Bernard White were up a visit yesterday and took home some cakes and breads. Russell planted a different kind of beet this year and the tubers look more like chard, but you should see the beets! Some of them are three or four inches in diameter. There are a woody centers in any of them though they are so large that one will more than a pint jar. Don't know as I ever saw such beets before.

Looking outside this morning, all I can think of is the song in the musical "Oklahoma" where they sing "Oh what a beautiful morning." The sky is so blue and the sun is shining, a wonderful day for the fair at Oxford. Might get there, as my grandson Toby is showing his beef and I'd like to see him doing it. He has done a lot of it in 4-H and does a good job.

Well, I went to Wynona's home last Friday to help her out. She was sick in bed with a virus and whatever to go along with it, running a high temp and sick to her stomach and all the good things that go with being sick. We were getting ready to go, or were going to when we got home from the doctor's, but found Peggy's daughter Myrna and husband Bernard, here. Visited a little with them before starting for Lewiston. I got things together in a hurry and of course forgot a few items I would have liked to have with me. I was there until Monday, when Peggy came to get me. I took care of the girls and helped in any way I could to get things done for the weekend.

Monday, Wynona was feeling better and had so much to do where school was concerned that she was going strong again. I helped in teaching a crochet class and will continue for the next few weeks. Had a good time meeting the ladies in the class and getting them started in crocheting. They all did well.

When I came home in the afternoon, Karlann came with me as she didn't have to go to nursery school till Thursday and I thought it would help Wynona if she didn't have both girls to cope with while trying to get on her feet again.

Tuesday was a busy day for all of us. We went to town to get surplus food and did lots of other errands while in town. Got home in time to get lunch on the table and Peggy did most of the dishes, washing while I wiped. Then had to leave to take her car to the garage. It hasn't run right for some time and even though she has had it in the garage in South Paris, it still hadn't been fixed as it should have been. Russell went with her as he had an appointment with a doctor for a look at his leg that has been bothering so long. They thought the car would be ready in a couple of hours but had to call for me to come get them as it wouldn't be fixed that day. When the call came, I was in the middle of making some molasses cookies so had to wait for a painful to bake before I could go pick them up. Got back as soon as I could and finished baking the cookies. By that time it was "most time to get supper, so that time it was most free time to do what I wanted to do."

Yesterday was busy also. Peggy took me to the doctor for my back in the forenoon. Had to stop at a store on the way home. Got lunch and then had a busy afternoon canning beans. Put up 30 pints of them during the afternoon. Thank goodness Karlann was a real good girl for her Nana so I did it done and took care of them this morning.

Peggy cooked some and put them in freezer bags or boxes to try freezing them this year. I haven't tried it but don't see why they shouldn't be all right. We freeze carrots that way and they are good, so why not beans? Anyway, time will tell. Just didn't have room in our freezer to try anything like that. By the time we get all put up the freezer will be full and then some. But it will sure help this winter.

If you want to see a sight you should see Russell's tomato plants. One kind are "Sweet Million" and I swear there are a million tomatoes on each plant. There are four of them. The tomatoes are like cherry tomatoes and what a bunch of them there are. We can't keep up with them and with the canning, too; we can't keep up with them in eating either. He had never tried them before and they are sure a sight, covered with tomatoes.

So are the other plants with the large tomatoes.

Carlos Aizpuz has been entered in the Oxford Hills Chamber of Commerce golf tournament. Today, Saturday, he is playing at the Paris Hill Country Club and tomorrow he will be playing at the Norway Country Club. Patrick Harrington is caddy for him.

On Sunday Ray Harrington is expected to attend and speak at the Eagle Court of Honor for Stephen Miller, in Buxton. Stephen was one of Ray's Scouts when they attended the 1985 National Jamboree at Fort A.P. Hill in Virginia.

Sorry to hear of the death of Kathryn Soule, of Palermo, sister-in-law of Marion Soule. She, Marion and Leah Deegan have been on several fun excursions together.

Our bus driver is Cindy, but due to my poor penmanship it was printed as Andy last week. Sorry.

We have had two hard frosts this week, which have nearly finished the garden for this year.

Adult Ed classes start next week. I've signed up for a few and am anxious to get started.

Others as well as themselves with the good bargains.

Guess we should all be thankful that we are not having to think about the hurricane that is striking places so hard. Winds of 175 and gusting to 200 are frightening just to think of. The most we can do is pray for the people who are in its path and hope it doesn't take too large a toll on them.

Have a good week and take care when driving because of the school children.

CARD OF THANKS
With deep appreciation we would like to thank the benefit supper committee, its collectors and all those who attended and/or sent food or donations. Our warmest thoughts to you all. A most grateful thank you goes out to the major contribution donated by Andover Wood Products; also extending our thanks to Shop 'n Save Supermarket for their donation of paper products and to the Nissen Bread Company for the rolls which they contributed.

Former dropouts sought as GED program starts

By CAROLYN COLBY

"Let's Give Each Other Another Chance" is the theme of the recruitment effort being undertaken by the SAD #44 Adult and Community Education program this fall. Adult and Community Education Director Cathy Newell and Edna Remington, a secretary in the adult education office, are attempting to personally contact individuals who failed to graduate from Telstar Regional High School during its 20-year history, as well as individuals who have started, but not completed, adult education high school completion programs. The goal is to encourage adults who have not completed their high school education to enroll in GED or adult high school completion courses.

The campaign began with a summer-long, and still ongoing, effort by Mrs. Remington, obtaining names and addresses of Telstar dropouts. High school administration and staff have been assisting in the search for current names and addresses, and the first calls were made this week. "The response so far has been positive," said Mrs. Newell.

"The former students are quite surprised to be called, but seem glad to know that SAD #44 is interested in them." She added that the project will continue throughout the fall as more names and addresses are found. The first group of calls produced six prospective adult education students, and several others who cannot participate this year but would like to in the future. It was also discovered that some interested prospective students work nights, so the SAD #44 program is considering offering GED preparation in the early afternoons later this year to make it possible for them to participate.

SAD #44's adult high school completion program will start Monday, Sept. 26, from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m., at Telstar Regional High School.

New students must take GED practice tests, after which a custom program will be designed for them.

Andrea Hoyt will be the GED instructor this fall. Adult high school diploma classes will include English on Monday nights, Civics on Wednesdays, and Refresher Math on Thursdays. These classes start during the week of Sept. 26.

GED preparation will be available in Andover in early-October.

Anyone interested in any of these programs should contact Cathy Newell, at 824-2780. There is no charge to SAD #44 residents for GED preparation or testing.

THIS WEEK AT THE Moses Mason House

Visitors this week to the Dr. Moses Mason House Museum included an Elderhostel group from Sunday River Inn and the Bethel Senior Citizens.

The fall meeting of the Oxford County League of Historical Societies was held in Rumford Center with the Greater Rumford Historical Society serving as hosts. Speaker for the meeting was A.D. Poor, of Andover, who made a presentation on Indian life in western Maine more than 11,000 years ago. He also shared with the group some of his extensive archaeological collection.

As the October meeting of the Bethel Historical Society will focus on Clark Street, there is a need for photographs, artifacts and memories of that part of Bethel. Anyone with anything to share regarding this street is urged to call Mrs. Barbara H. Brown, at 824-2823, or the Society office, at 824-2903.

Progress on the 1988 Endowment Campaign goal continues with over 58 percent of the total needed from 194 donors. Among the latest contributors are Poland and Barbara Crocker, Riverside, N.J.; E. Louise Lincoln, Bethel; Kathryn Hanscom Bailey, Lewiston; James and Julia Walker, Crestview, Fla., in memory of Cullen F. Walker. Much gratitude is expressed to these donors for their generosity.

Recent additions to collections of the Bethel Historical Society include a copy of "Poland Spring Remembered: Recollections of Catharine Lewis Lennihan," the gift of Ben B. Conant of South Paris; a copy of Curtis Genealogical Data (unpublished typescript from Jeannette Clifford of South Paris, a copy of "Several Jones Families in Bristol County, Massachusetts and Turner, Maine," a copy of "Kittery Kaleidoscope" from Randall H. Bennett in memory of Lester I. Bennett, a copy of "Manchester, Maine 1793-1975," and Samuel Miller's "Waldoboro, Maine: A History," from an anonymous donor. Nancy H. Meever has transcribed town meeting records of Bethel from 1796 to 1893 and presented a copy of her typescript to the Society. Much appreciation is expressed to all of the above for their contributions to the research facilities of the Society.

The Society has also received the latest issue of the Dublin Seminar for New England Folklife Annual Proceedings titled "The Farm." This is now available to researchers.

August got projected into September on Aug. 30, as I tore 29 from the calendar and found two pages missing, so suddenly there were more, much too early, into the month of frosts, lessening daylight and completing migration of the birds. Since the day lasted 72 hours, we got acclimated.

Bob Jenkins spent a week at Heritage Farm helping us with some of the heavy work. His parents, Albert and Thelma Jenkins, of West Peru, visited Sunday and Bob returned home with them. Some of the family came Saturday afternoon and Sunday to work on the building. The holiday weekend brought mostly

Northwest Bethel

By CLARICE GIBSON

Sept. 15 and there is definitely a feeling of fall in the area. Hope Hurricane Gilbert blows out before it gets up this far. We have had some beautiful days and suspect we will be getting frosts before too many days. Usually we are quite fortunate as living near the river we get fog quite a few times when others on the Northwest Bethel Road get frosts.

Opening the mail today I have four letters telling me that I have definitely won a prize if they receive my answer or order within a certain number of days and our name is picked. I have never known anyone who actually won. They always make it sound so easy.

Another busy weekend. Friday, Barbara MacDougall and I went to Berlin and Gorham, N.H. On the way back she stopped in and had lunch with me. Friday night Frankie brought our granddaughter, Theresa, and Theresa Buck to spend the night. Theresa Buck went home Saturday, but our granddaughter spent Saturday night. Saturday George, Barbara Bethel, Debbie and George Jr. came for home-baked beans, grilled hotdogs, cakes and apple pie. Sunday afternoon I went to a bridal shower in Norway at the Turners', on Paradise Street, for Kristen Greene. While there a lady came up to me and said "You don't remember me do you?" She told me that she was Suzanne Grover and some of the boys had gone to her husband, Rupert Grover Jr., when he taught math at Telstar.

Then Monday I left here before 5 a.m. to go to see Wilfred at Togus. I had dinner at my sister's, Marion Tucker, in Readfield and saw her youngest grandchild.

Wednesday, Evelyn Hilborn and I went to Norway on business. We ate at Country Way and then picked up the caribou meat. Have some thawing out for supper. Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Angevine, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Abbott and Betty Blake left Sept. 7 and came back the next Sunday. They went to Patten Lumberman's Museum in northern Maine. In Canada they went to New Brunswick into Cape Breton and traveled around the Cabot Trail.

Sept. 7, Barbara and Lea MacDougall took a ride around the mountains; they went through the Kangamangus Highway, then came back and ate in Gorham, N.H.

Sept. 13 Gerry Shimamura took Evelyn Ayward to Ledgeview Nursing Home to visit Thelma Merrill. It was a beautiful day so Thelma was able to come outdoors and visit.

Amy Laban, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Laban, has gone out for field hockey at Gould Academy. Christopher Laban spent 14 weeks during the summer visiting the Lief Dammerud family in Oslo, Norway. He also had a job while at Oslo.

Sept. 7 Edie Smith and grandson Adam went to visit Sally and Zuch Smith in North Conway, N.H. Adam is going to spend this week also with his grandparents and father, Doug Smith, and Terry. Sylvia Benson and sister, Judy Small, of Hebron, left the Thursday before Labor Day to Flying Point, Freeport and came back Labor Day.

Similar visitors of Sylvia Benson were Bradley and Fern Benson of Poland and Sharon Kimball, of Watford.

On Friday, Sept. 9, Evelyn Hilborn, Frances Farnum, Bertha Planders, of Locke Mills, and Louvie Coffin, of West Paris, drove to Auburn-Lewiston where they shopped, had lunch and took a scenic drive home Sunday, Sept. 11. Evelyn went to Norway with Frances Farnum and Louvie Coffin for lunch. Recently, Evelyn spotted four moose drinking in the river on the outskirts of Bethel. They seemed very tame and didn't bother about the people watching them.

JACKSON-SILVER POST NEWS

Members of the Jackson-Silver Post met for their monthly meeting Thursday evening, Sept. 15, at the Legion Hall in Locke Mills.

The annual picnic supper was held inside the hall at 6 p.m., with a very good attendance.

Following the picnic supper a musical program was presented under the leadership of Mrs. Mary Lyon, music chairman of the Legion Auxiliary. Mrs. Jane Chandler, her daughter Becky, along with Sarah Hart brought special music. The entire group sang several patriotic songs from specially prepared song sheets.

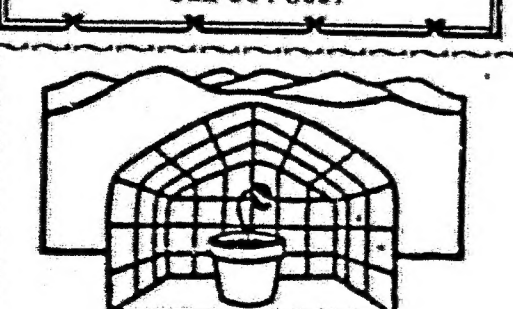

Then a special presentation was given with Mrs. Sylvia Dunham as narrator. Speaking parts in this presentation were given by Kelly Bartlett, Alan Pollard, Vera Cross and Olive Risko.

A report was made of the very successful "Shop 'n Save" supper put on by the Shop 'n Save supermarket of South Paris. Bob Sawyer, of a Portland TV station, was M.C. of the program. Several amounts of food were given to individuals present as part of the program.

This supper was sponsored by the Legion Post to benefit the Tri-Town Ambulance, with headquarters in West Paris. A check for the amount of $475 was presented by Mrs. Mary Lyon to Mrs. Jane Chandler of the Tri-Town Ambulance.

A business meeting followed the above program. Following reading a letter from the American Legion headquarters relating to the matter of placing markers and flags on the graves of veterans in various locations that each Legion Post is responsible for, quite a lengthy discussion ensued about how this project is to be carried out by the Post. In the discussion it was mentioned that a survey has been conducted by some interested members of the Post in the past years of the various cemeteries we are responsible for with all the graves of veterans.

Savings Bank finishes strong first quarter

Jun Delamater, president and chief executive officer of Bethel Bancorp., the parent company of Bethel Savings Bank, FSB, last week announced net income for the first quarter ended July 31 of $264,686 or $0.50 per share.

Bethel Bancorp.'s first year as a stock company ended April 30 with per share earnings of $1.70.

President Delamater said, "Management is very pleased with the first quarter results and is optimistic about the future as the western Maine economy continues to be strong."

Mr. Delamater credited the first quarter performance to strong overall loan demand, which has increased current earnings significantly. Total assets now stand at $82,866,472, up from $58,553,745 for the year ended April 30.

In a related development, the board of directors, on Sept. 14, declared a second quarter dividend of $0.08 per share for shareholders of record on Sept. 28. This dividend shall be payable on Oct. 31. Bethel Savings Bank FSB, a wholly owned subsidiary of Bethel Bancorp., maintains branches in Bethel, South Paris, Harrison and Rumford.

marked. It was voted that damaged flags that have been placed on veterans' graves will be replaced if and when they are discovered. Help is asked of the citizens who find such a flag to report it to any Legion member or the present post commander, Brian Strickland, of Bethel.

Due to the lack of the necessary personnel the Flag Burning Ceremony planned for this fall at the last meeting has been postponed until next spring.

It was further voted that this meeting that the Post would present a new flag plus standard and base to the Woodstock Elementary School at Bryant Pond. The principal, Mr. Murphy, has been notified of this gift and a formal presentation will be made by members of the post color guard at a school assembly to be held Wednesday, Sept. 21, at 11 a.m.

A report was given that a successful hunters' safety course has been completed and that there will be a special deer hunting bow course given at the Legion Hall Sunday afternoon, Sept. 25. The instructor of the course will be Henry Wakefield, of North Woodstock, a well-known hunting bow expert. All who are interested in attending can get the time by calling Mr. Wakefield at 665-2260 or Herbert Lyon at 665-2321.

At the close of the meeting a letter of resignation was presented by Comrade Frank York as sergeant-at-arms to accept the duties of Post adjutant. Comrade Earle Colby, past commander, was voted to assume the duties of sergeant-at-arms.

Sorry! No news last week I was visiting my brother and other relatives in Unity. We were in Damariscotta and New Harbor one day. Also toured Pemaquid Light and Fort William Henry. Also attended the Clinton Lions' Club Fair in Roy's 1926 Dodge touring car. I came home Sunday. Weston Flint and Mrs. Winifred Haggood were Sunday visitors of Mrs. Elmore Doyen.

Last weekend Mrs. Christine Kimball, with daughter Alberta, and travel, were in Boston to attend the graduation exercises of their daughter/granddaughter, Melanie Rutledge, who received her degree in mechanical engineering, one of three girls in the class. She has accepted employment in that area.

Mrs. Peggy Levine, from Arkansas, visited her daughter, Mrs. Pam Rood, last week.

Mr. and Mrs. David Salway attended the University of Southern Maine-Rhode Island State College soccer game last Saturday at Gorham, won by USM, 5-0. The first frost of the season hit here Friday morning. Seeing things all white reminds us of what's to come.

Mr. and Mrs. William Bancroft are recuperating at home now after being patients at Stephens Memorial Hospital for hip surgery and Phyllis severe infection that is still keeping her confined.

An accident occurred here on Highway 1 where one vehicle sideswiped another.

News from

Woodstock School

Principal David Murphy reports: Our annual Walk-A-Thon is underway! The children were scheduled to complete the laps during physical education classes last week. As you probably know, this fundraiser is used to bring special guests to the Woodstock School during the course of the year. Dr. Jim Parker will be here on Sept. 28 to present his program on Raptor Ecology. This will feature live owls, hawks and falcons.

In an effort to help promote the importance of this fundraiser, Mrs. Gaudreau, Grade 1 teacher and I shall be participating in the Walk-A-Thon. Mrs. Gaudreau is being sponsored by many staff members. I have asked any students interested to sponsor me for one cent per lap. (Some wanted to know if I was going to run the 50 laps!) Any contributions would be most welcome. Once again, students will be eligible to receive some terrific prizes for participating in the Walk-A-Thon. Weekly drawings will occur during school assemblies. Parents can assist by bringing their child's sponsor sheets to work with them. Thank you for your support in our efforts.

Help Wanted: Cornstalks and pumpkins, to decorate the front of Woodstock Elementary School. Please contact the office if interested in this project.

Girl and Boy Scout registration. Thursday, Sept. 22 at 6:30 p.m. Woodstock Elementary School multi-purpose room. Old Tiger Cubs, fee is $7; new Tiger Cubs, fee is $3; old Boy Scouts, free. Also, looking for Den Leader. Call Denise Adams, 827-2180.

Resource Room—Mrs. Caddigan reports:

Important: The date for our "Parent Night" has been rescheduled. Instead of Tuesday, Sept. 20, we will have our event on Oct. 18, open house night. See you then!

Grade 1—Mrs. Gaudreau: Grandparents' Day was a great success. The grandparents shared hobbies and stories with the 1st-graders. Each child who had a grandparent present gave them the picture that they had drawn.

Amy Hebert's grandmother made cookies to share and we also had apples. Lindsey Moody's grandmother gave each child a clip-on pin.

The grandparents enjoyed the "one line" that the children had told about their grandparents.

Grade 2—Mrs. Greeke: Students in Mrs. Greeke's 2nd Grade class went on a "sock walk" this week. The children are studying all about seeds in science. On Wednesday afternoon, they put on a sock over one shoe and walked through the long grass on the edge of the playground. They carefully took off the sock and returned to the classroom, where they shook off the seeds that were clinging to the sock. The class used magnifying glasses to inspect their collection. Later this week, the children are planning to plant some of the seeds to see if they will grow in the classroom.

Grade 2 had a special guest on Wednesday who shared her knowledge about how to be your own best health helper. Mrs. Ellie Thurlow (Neil's mom), who is a nurse, helped each student find their pulse and listen to their heartbeat. Then they discussed how our heartbeat changes as we become more active. When we felt our pulse after 20 jumping jacks, we knew our heart was working harder!

Grade 3—Miss Moran: On Friday, Sept. 23, the 3rd-graders will be taking a well-deserved break from SRA Testing, by baking bread. This will correlate with a story from their reading series.

We look forward to the wonderful smells which will be coming from the Woodstock Elementary School kitchen as our bread bakes! Yum, Yum!

Greenstock children

register for scouting

Thursday, Sept. 22nd

Registration for students from Greenwood and Woodstock interested in Boy Scouts or Girl Scouts is Thursday, Sept. 22, at 6:30 p.m., at the multi-purpose room of the Woodstock School.

Girls in Grades 1-3 are eligible for Brownies. Their leader will be Debbie Poland and the troop plans to meet on Sunday afternoons. Girls in Grades 4-6 are eligible for Juniors. Their leader will be Jane Chandler and the troop will meet at the school Wednesdays, from noon to 2 p.m., starting in October. The days will coincide with the teachers' in-service afternoons. Registration fee for all girls is $4 for the year.

Boys in Grade 1 are eligible for Tiger Cubs, a program specifically for a boy and a parent. Registration fee is $3. Boys in Grades 2-6 are eligible for Cub Scouts or Webelos. The fee for former Tiger Cubs joining Cub Scouts is $7. There is no registration fee for former Boy Scouts. Denise Adams is the scoutmaster. Anyone interested in leading a den should contact her, at 827-2180.

Another project the students are working on is an autobiography. Each member of the class cut out an oaktag figure, which they decorated with paper and cloth clothes and yarn scrap hair. Next, the children will be filling out an informational sheet about themselves, including items such as hobbies, pets, favorite color, etc.

Grade 2—Mrs. Seames: Grade 2 had a special guest on Wednesday who shared her knowledge about how to be your own best health helper. Mrs. Ellie Thurlow (Neil's mom), who is a nurse, helped each student find their pulse and listen to their heartbeat. Then they discussed how our heartbeat changes as we become more active. When we felt our pulse after 20 jumping jacks, we knew our heart was working harder!

Greenwood City

By COLISTA MORGAN

This week told me that summer was waning swiftly. I found myself looking for a sweater again. Before long I'll awake to see, on some chill morning, a bridal gown of snow on the driveway. But the fall rain which has come in September has brought the brooks that were mere trickles all through August, back to chatter again. I hear them in the stillness as I walk.

There's a yellow tinge to the birches, which will turn to gold as the month advances.

There have been dark days when the sky was slatted with porcelain clouds, and others cool, bright and inviting. The latter found me doing "Time"—out of door things, which must be taken care of before snow falls: such as wood to pile, screens to remove, bulbs to dig and plants to put inside.

All this crystal air cleanses urban grit from the lungs.

I look time to walk. Time is precious stuff. With time I can buy priceless items such as peace and happiness. When I started out I told myself, "I'll buy myself a chunk of idleness, to which I'll devote this walk." It meant drift wherever I happened to drift. No way would I plan; just let it unfold as I proceed without effort or schedule. I did. From a hilltop the sky glowed and I stopped to look. The sunlight was too bright and blinding to observe it directly.

The stands of spruce, fir and pine rose above many lesser trees.

The charm of a woodland road lies, like my Spring Road, not only in beauty but in anticipation, for around each bend there may be an adventure. Woodland roads are like friends: one familiar may startle you with a quirk in personality, while one unfamiliar is a new acquaintance whose character is yet to be discovered.

In the distance, thin wisps of smoke curled from some of the neighbors' chimneys.

My road ran on, up and down, and I came through the hemlock grove, dark and cool.

I happened across a great number of ants emerging from beneath a rotting stump. I left them to themselves. Who is to say their importance to the living world?

My trail led me home, where the crickets were tuning up; the dancers were taking their places. I was too weary to join them. I could see that the sun was well over in the west slipping toward the horizon. Darkness comes quickly, and I was reminded to review my day.

This had been a beautiful week weatherwise and most have taken advantage of it.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Holt and family, of Windsor, visited Mr. and Mrs. Leonas Holt on Sunday. Other callers were Mr. and Mrs. Dale Mills and granddaughter Kayla Mills and Nicole Goodwin, from Shapleigh; Mr. and Mrs. Woodworth; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Gardner, Watford; Lawrence Verrill, South Paris; Mr. and Mrs. David Holt and Mary, Standish; Mr. and Mrs. Fran Picierillo, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Durgin and family, local; and Ann Holt, Bethel.

Visitors at Dorothy Curtis' were Lucy Ridley, Norway; Mildred Bowman, Hebron; Donald Bowman, Canton; Mr. and Mrs. Dale Mills, Kayla Mills and Nicole Goodwin, Shapleigh; Nita and Katherine Hakala, Irene Stevens, Eva Felton, Kathy and Rena Curtis, local.

Rena Curtis visited her sister, Ruth Collins, Brunswick, and daughter Colista Gossnell, Freeport, and all went out for lunch together in Yarmouth one day. Rena went to Vermont with Gloria Curtis on Saturday. Marie and Bonny-Jo Curtis, Buckfield, visited Rena one day.

LURC wants input on dealing with solid waste in unorganized territories

The Maine Land Use Regulation Commission will hold a public hearing on Thursday, Oct. 20, at 2:30 p.m. and 7:30 p.m., at the Performing Arts Center, University of Maine at Machias, to receive comments on proposed rules changes for solid waste facilities.

Copies of the petition may be inspected prior to this hearing at the commission's office in Augusta between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. on weekdays. In addition, copies of the petition may be obtained free of charge in advance by writing the Commission at State House Station #22, Augusta, 04333, or by calling 288-2851, or in state toll-free, 1-800-452-8711. Mahosuc Arts Council sponsors hike/walk/run as part of crafts festival

A great day is being planned by the Mahosuc Arts Council: a three-mile hike/walk/run is set for Sunday River Ski Resort on Saturday, Oct. 8.

For $15 per person, or $35 per family, participants can enjoy an outdoor BBQ lunch, live concert and get Sunday River ski ticket vouchers worth up to $15 during the 1988/89 season. Plus, the first 100 entrants receive a long-sleeve T-shirt.

The first three male and first three female participants to reach the top of Sunday River's Three Mile Trail will receive awards. One of these will include a new pair of Rossignol skis.

The Mahosuc Arts Council will also present an award for the best combined team of a team representing a company. A challenging team will consist of two employees, either male, female or both.

All of this will be in conjunction with the Blue Mountain Arts and Crafts Festival to be held at the resort the same weekend. This will be a chance to show support for the many fine artists that the Mahosuc Arts Council has been able to bring to the mountains of western Maine and to raise money for the upcoming year.

At the crafts show inside, over 20 talented artists will be displaying their crafts for sale.

For more information concerning this celebration of the arts, call 824-3300 or 824-3306.

And the team would initially compete only at the junior varsity level.

"We've got to come up with $35,000 by next fall if we want to put a junior varsity team on the field," Mr. Roberts said, adding that a number of people and businesses in the community had already expressed a willingness to contribute.

Raising money, however, is only one of the obstacles facing a renewed program. A number of school officials and staff have said, for example, that they don't feel Telstar is large enough to support both soccer and football programs. This concern came up repeatedly at Thursday's meeting.

Telstar Athletic Director Carroll Higgins distributed the results of a football survey conducted among 7th, 8th, 9th and 10th graders. In responding to the survey, 20 students said they played soccer or ran cross-country and would not be interested in football; 93 male students said they would make a commitment to playing football and they believed Telstar should have a football program; 34 male students said they were not interested in playing football.

The athletic director said, however, that he felt only about half the students who said they wanted to play football would, in fact, make a commitment to football. And of those who would play football, some would come from the soccer program.

School Board Director Rex Thurston was openly skeptical that Telstar would be consistently able to field a team. "I played for a small team myself," he said, "and I just don't think this school has enough support for it. You'll have two or three losing seasons and then only a few guys will show up."

Pointing to the possibility of competition between the football and soccer teams for good athletes, he said: "Are you going to scrap one for the other?"

He also questioned whether all the students who said they would make a commitment to football would even be allowed to play. "Have their parents seen the survey?" he asked. "Some parents won't let their kids play football."

"That's all right," quipped Phil Taylor, who teaches foreign languages and formerly coached Telstar football teams, "some parents won't let their kids take foreign languages either."

Proposed subdivision on Alcohol Mary Road is subject of hearing

The Greenwood Planning Board has scheduled a public hearing tonight (Wednesday) on the proposed Rolling Hills Subdivision at the intersection of Alcohol Mary and Richardson Hollow roads.

Subdivision plans submitted by Ellis Realty Trust, a Framingham, Mass. developer, call for the 60 acre parcel to be divided into eight lots, six of approximately five acres apiece, the remaining two of 15 acres apiece.

In response to concerns raised by residents of Alcohol Mary Road, the developers have limited the number of driveways that will open onto that narrow, curved and hilly dirt road.

Nancy Dewing, however, contends that the changes are only "making the best of a bad situation. Any driveways will increase the danger."

Residents also worry that increased winter traffic on the road may make it even more difficult for large vehicles—especially fire trucks—to get up the hill. "It's built into the side of a steep hill," Mrs. Dewing said. "There's a very severe drop on one side and no room to plow the snow back on the other. When you come to a curve in the winter you literally can't see what's in front of you. If another car is coming, there's no place to go."

"We're not against the subdivision," Mrs. Dewing said, "but we're very concerned about the safety of those driveways."

Greenwood Road Commissioner Raymond Seames has met with a representative of the developers, who have agreed to do site work where the driveways enter the road.

That work will improve the visibility at the entrances of the driveways, Mr. Seames said, but it will not tackle problems with Alcohol Mary Road itself.

If the subdivision is approved, the town will probably have to upgrade the road next year, Mr. Seames said. "It's an inadequate road now. More traffic will only make things worse," he said.

It's not a unique situation, he added. "We're starting to face this sort of thing all over town."

The hearing will be held at 7:00 p.m. in the town hall.

The Commission on Maine's Future

Public asked to express opinions on questions regarding Maine's future

On Wednesday evening, Sept. 28, Maine citizens will have a unique opportunity to help plan their state's future. A 90-minute special program, produced by WCBB-TV and broadcast live on all Maine public broadcasting channels, will not only air experts discussing the issues facing Maine in the 21st century but will ask viewers to voice their opinions and to vote on key quality of life issues.

The program is part of the ongoing work of the Commission on Maine's Future, which was established by the 113th Maine Legislature to "help Maine citizens to create a common, collective vision for their state's future."

The program, "Maine in the 21st Century," will be co-hosted by Angus King and members of the commission. It will be broadcast live beginning at 9 p.m. and will include documentary field reports, panels of state policy leaders, live studio audience participation and call-in segments. The field reports and panels will explore the future of education, land use, energy, technology as well as a host of social and economic issues facing our state.

Producer Bill Maroldo has traveled extensively throughout Maine to bring viewers first-hand reports on how Maine people view the future as well as visited the enormous Hydro-Quebec facility in James Bay which may provide a portion of Maine's future energy needs.

"This is the most ambitious and far-reaching special program that we've produced at Channel 10," Mr. Maroldo said, "and we are hoping for widespread participation from our viewers."

State officials concerned about radon in homes; spot checks to be made

Human Services Commissioner Rollin Ives said last week Maine has been picked as one of seven states where statistical surveys of radon sources will be conducted this year.

Commissioner Ives also reported that four Maine testing laboratories have been certified by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency for radon screening.

Last week's statement came following an announcement by the EPA that radon is a national hazard and anyone living on the ground floor or second floor of a building should have the air and water in the building tested for radon.

"Radon is a suspect in thousands of lung cancer cases throughout the northeast," Commissioner Ives said. "It can be deadly, and next to cigarette smoke is the leading cause of lung cancer in Maine."

Radon, a gas emanating from decaying granite found in many parts of Maine, can be found airborne in homes and waterborne where drilled wells reach into aquifers.

The surveys will be a joint effort between state and federal officials. More than 1,000 sites picked at random will be surveyed in Maine, according to Donald C. Hoxie, director of the Department of Human Services Health Engineering.

Selection for tests will be done by population and area considerations.

The four laboratories certified by EPA for radon screening are Alpha Radon Environmental Testing, Portland; Northern Environmental Laboratory, Dixmont; Radon Diagnostic Laboratory, South Portland; and the Department of Human Services Public Health Laboratory, Augusta.

While the EPA recommended homeowners check the levels of radon in their homes with a test kit, presently no such kits are available in the Bethel area.

More information on radon, its health effects and treatment techniques, is available by writing the Department of Human Services Health Engineering Division, Station 10, State House, Augusta, 04333.
